

EMDR REFRESHER

The EMDR Refresher training is a two-day review of the EMDR Basic course designed to get clinicians who have previously completed an EMDRIA-approved training back on track with using EMDR in their practice. Maybe you haven't applied what you learned in the Basic EMDR course for some period of time, lack confidence in your EMDR skills, or wish to strengthen your understanding and practice of EMDR therapy.

This course will also introduce using EMDR to address Identity Based Trauma ("IBT"). IBT is the "psychological, emotional and physical responses to a distressing event or act where that event or act attacks, marginalizes or implicates one or more core identity factors (e.g., race, gender, sexual orientation) of the traumatized person."

Specific topics covered include:

- 8 Phases of EMDR
- Pendulation
- Resource Development Installation
- Recent Event Protocol
- Strategies for Blocked Processing
- Optimizing Dual Attention
- Cognitive/Clinical Interweaves
- Complex PTSD
- Brief introduction to Identity and Identity-Based Trauma
